Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor are welcome. While there is no limit on the number of words, please write only enough material to adequately cover the subject. Anonymous letters are not acceptable, although names may be withheld on request.

Dear Editor:

I'm saddened to read of Willard Branson's withdrawal from the Board of Supervisors. The concern with his health which brought him to this decision is shared by all of us, I'm sure. But more than that I know we have lost one of those rarities in government, a man dedicated to the concept of public service.

During his term of office as supervisor there was no issue too insignificant, no constituent too unimportant, no request for his attention that went unheeded. Wherever the meeting, whatever the time, he managed to be there, ready to listen to all through those many weary hours, to reserve his judgment until all sides had been heard.

He was available; he was sympathetic; he was honest; he will be sorely missed.

Dear Editor:

Recently I have been hearing people remark that we are letting our Democratic privileges slip away from us. For example the President of the United States, Mr. Ford is an appointed president. Rather that an elected one and soon that will be the case with the vice-president.

We right here in the 5th district in Monterey County are experiencing the loss of our privilege of electing our supervisor. Mr. Branson was chosen for us by the govenor and now Mr. Branson is making it possible for the governor to do it again.

If Mr. Branson has the affection for the people of his district he says he has it would seem to me he would stay in office say until next spring and allow us to have an election to choose someone we voters want.

Dear Editor:

A typographical error in the article, "Alternative offered to bay underwater park," in your August 22 number, gave the address of the State Lands Commission as San Francisco, instead of Sacramento.

The correct address is: State Lands Commission, 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento, Ca. 95814.

Local reisdents should write to urge the State Lands Commission to deny the use of underwater land by the State Department of Parks and Recreation for a Carmel Bay Underwater State Park - the worst threat that have ever been aimed at the Carmel community.

Dear Editor:

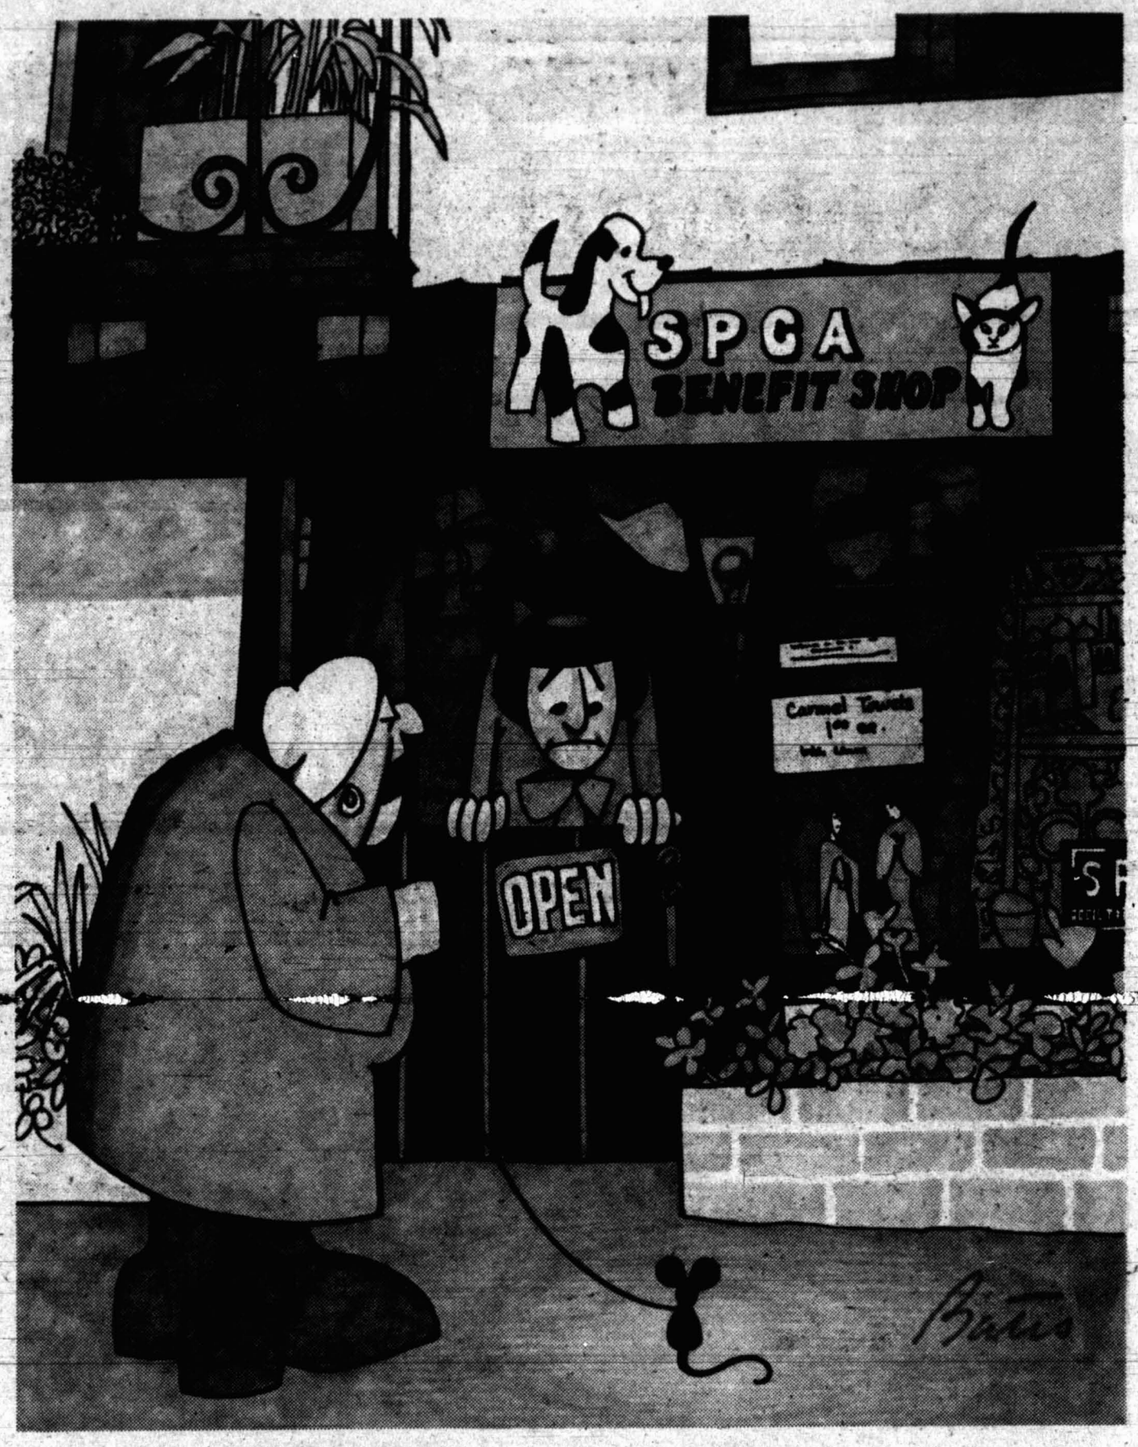

While criticising our new president for obvious reasons, we may forget to give him credit for one great contribution he made without really intending to do so. He brought out fully into the light of day something our great society of hypocrites has tried to cover up for many years on a scale that dwarfs even the Watergate cover-up.

Mr. Ford announced for the whole world to know beyond any shadow of any doubt that we do indeed have double standards of justice in America, that the concept of equal justice under the law is a farce. It was about time it was exposed for what it is, phony rhetoric, so something can be done about it, one way or another.

Either some steps should be taken to make equal justice a reality, or else all mention of the term should be removed from our Constitution and our law books, and perhaps even from our public school textbooks so that schoolchildren won't be confused about it.

Of course, there is an in-between alternative. We could continue with out present system, and adjust the wording and the actions to match the reality. The Constitution and the school books could be re-written to clearly explain that certain types of people get particular brands of justice, depending on financial and political background, family name, business associations, etc., not to mention inclination to contribute to political campaigns.

Dear Editor:

May I address an OPEN LETTER to one long deceased?:

"Dear King George III: At the outset, let us understand each other. I am not among your very few fans!

"King, does the grave know what is going on among the living? Is it aware of what transpires in this vast, highly industrialized, beloved land? That from a start in 1776 with a large degree of optimistic idealism - democracy and all it implies - we seem to be ending up with cynical corruption and disillusionment? Has America turned full circle? I hope not!

"King, science documents fully man's ages-long inheritence of jungle nastiness. It indicates, also, that modern man has a measure of civilization-derived decency. Wtih such a double nature, of irrationality and rationality, is it any wonder that some individuals knock themselves out to clutch at power? That, then, they display their primitive instincts quite often of brutish meanness and greed?

"King, does that explain the meddling horrors committeed in Korea and Vietnam by the world's greatest military power? Is that the reason for shocking Watergate and its aftermath of frantic coverup? Of most BRAZEN pardon? Of the urging of tremendous financial-outlays of public money to one forced at long, long, last to resign for White House rascality? And of the wheels of justice taking a disgusting eternity to punish the guilty - at least a paltry few of them?

"King your 'taxation WITHOUT representation' was, indeed, reprehensible. But, BEHOLD OUR PRESENT ENDLESS TAXATION WITH REPRESENTATION! Were you a 'softie?' Surely, our government of the people can show you a few tricks!

"King, shouting the catch-phrase 'For King and Country,' your lackeys harrassed the colonists. Now, some officials wave our cherished flag of a free society to feather their own nests, involve us in AVOIDABLE distant wars, and neglect our welfare!

"King, it is said: 'history repeats itself!' Is it because human nature changes so awfully slow? Is that why the same blunders are made by nations and individuals, over and over and over again throughout the centuries?"

Dear Editor:

Hypocrisy is a harsh word. No one likes to be called a hypocrite, especially a politician. But one often wonders what goes through a person's mind when he or she advocates something which is 180 degrees away from that which is similar in nature and which was advocated by this same person at another time.

Take Julian Camacho, for example. He has been one of the foremost critics of the Nixon administration, abhorring their politics, their Watergates, their inconsistencies and their questionable integrity. He admonishes his opponent, Congressman Burt Talcott for being on Nixon's "team." In general, he gives the impression that he can't stand dishonesty, and wouldn't be connected with anyone who is.

Yet, he welcomed with open arms Senator Ted Kennedy who campaigned for him in this area last week--The same Ted Kennedy whose secretary drowned in an accident in which he was involved sometime around midnite when only the two were together. The same Ted Kennedy who admitted that it was some eight hours later before he could collect his wits and report the accident to the authorities.

We have no reason to disbelieve Kennedy's account of what happened, just as we have no reason to disbelieve Richard Nixon's account of how he was or was not involved in the Watergate coverup.

We find it difficult to understand Camacho's insistence that Nixon should never have been pardoned because now "we will never know what really happened because the pardon has in effect halted investigation into the matter."

But he never clamored for a full investigation of Kennedy's story of Chappaquidick. He never doubted, apparently, Kennedy's story of what happened. He forgot.

Ho Hum. Seems like the same old politics will prevail if Camacho is successful in unseating Talcott. Just a different ox being gored.

Planners uphold proposed ordinance

Second kitchens voted against

By Tom Lueck

A public hearing was held before the Carmel planning commission last Wednesday concerning a proposed ordinance which would prohibit second kitchens in local residences after January 1, 1985.

That ordinance has been approved by the commission and will come up for final approval at the October 8th meeting of the city council.

Amortization of second kitchens is an issue which has been pending before the council for two years. Action by the planning commission in recent months has been intended to clear up ambiguities in the original draft of the ordinance.

Intended as a measure to limit the density of population in the residential zone, the ordinance relates to the city's original zoning laws which were formulated in 1929. At that time, installation of second kitchens in new Carmel homes was prohibited. (To date, all such facilities in homes constructed after 1929 are illegal.)

The ordinance now pending before the city coundil would set a deadline for removal of second kitchens in homes constructed before 1929.

The ordinance is designed to discourage use of local homes as multiple family dwellings. While it does not in itself, prohibit apartment use in local homes, it does prohibit all facilities for food preparation in those apartment units. A "second kitchen," as defined in the ordinance, might include as little as a toaster and a portable electric hot plate.

Bob Griggs, Carmel planning director, expresses the view that there are many small apartments in local homes which would be affected by the ordinance.

At a meeting last month the commission rejected a suggestion by City Attorney George Brehmer that the new ordinance allow for the retention of kitchen units in apartments following the 1985 deadline--until such time as those apartments are vacated by their current tenants.

At last week's public hearing, concern was expressed regarding a potential financial loss to home owners. One Carmel resident explained to the commission that she and her husband had recently purchased a home which was built prior to 1929, and were renting a portion of that home as a studio apartment.

"Eleven years from now we're going to need the income from that apartment," she appealed.

A majority of the commission concurred with the view of Commissioner Eugene Hammond that "11 years is a reasonable amount of time" for the proposed amortization.

Another proposed ordinance, which would establish a minimum of 1000 square feet of ground area for each condominium unit sold in the city, was discussed in public hearing. That ordinance will also come up for final approval by the city council on October 8.

While there is presently no ordinance dealing specifically with condominium use, the proposed ordinance is designed to discourage widespread condominium development.

It is felt by members of the commission that by allowing condominium use on less than 1000 square feet of land area per unit, the city would provide a financial incentive for such development to the point that the number of apartment units in Carmel would be reduced.

While acknowledging arguments in favor of condominium use, members of the commission have expressed the view that "a balance of apartments and condominiums" must be achieved in the community.

In view of the current economic situation, it has been argued, developers would be inclined to take a quick return on their investment through construction of individually owned condominium units rather than a long term return through management of apartment units.

Local developer Ralph Stean, whose application for condominium use on a lot which would provide only 666 square feet of ground area per unit generated the controversy over condominiums-vs-apartments, testified before the commission.

He expressed the view that adequate apartment development would not be accomplished by the ordinance. "I believe that you will have very few applications for new apartments in Carmel," he said. "You simply cannot construct a low cost apartment on 666 square feet. It won't pay off."

Stean suggested that the only realistic way to encourage apartment development would be to allow construction on lots which provide less than 666 square feet per unit.

His comments, however, had little effect on the commission which has had the issue under study for two months. The city council is expected to concur with arguments presented by the planning commission, and approve the ordinance regulating condominium development.

Sunset Center to house theatre group

"It's not the best way, but it's a way to preserve the Community Theatre," reasoned Marilyn Wren, acting chairperson of the Carmel Cultural Commission.

Negotiations Monday night resulted in an agreement which would provide the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula with quarters to stage its productions next year--not the best quarters, but quarters.

Representatives of the non-profit theatre group expressed approval of a proposal which will make Room 20 of Sunset Theatre available to them. The proposal has the support of the cultural commission and is now being forwarded to the city council.

After more than one year without facilities to stage its theatrical productions to the public, representatives of the group were willing to accept any feasible offer. The Community Theatre staged a variety of reporatore productions in Carmel's Theater of the Golden Bough for 13 years until it was forced to vacate that facility in May of 1973.

Last month, a tentative agreement was reached with members of the cultural commission by which the theatre group would have leased and renovated the city's Boy Scout House. That agreement was scrapped when the Boy Scouts expressed adamant objection to sharing the house.

Room 20, while providing greater seating capacity than the Boy Scout House, would pose substantial administrative problems for both theatre group and Sunset Director Frank Riley. The room is currently being used for dance classes, kung-fu, chuch meetings, and a variety of other community functions.

Riley explained that while he and the cultural commission would try to maintain a "spirit of cooperation" with the theatre group, he would continue to schedule other community functions in the room. He said that sets and seats for productions in the room would often have to be removed by the theater group to allow for the use of the room by other groups.

"I'm afraid the situation is going to result in bad feelings on both sides," said Riley. "I'm going to have to make demands on them that they won't like, and they're going to make similiar demands on me. I don't know how they're going to remove all their props and materials in the middle of a production schedule so we can allow a dance class to use the room."

Representatives of the Community Theatre, while acknowledging that there would be problems with the room, seemed determined to reach an agreement with the commission. They stated that they would eventually request exclusive use of the room, but would organize their production schedules around previously scheduled activities in the room for the time being.

Under the agreement reached Monday night, the Community Theater will pay a rent of $100 per month for the proposed restricted use of the room. They will also fund installation of fixtures in the room to facilitate adequate theatre lighting.

Community Theatre Director Robert Heater explained that despite the obvious disadvantages to his group in attempting to stage productions in Room 20, the central location of Sunset Center and the availability of parking make the facility more attractive than others which have been investigated.

As stated in a proposal submitted to the cultural commission (which requested exclusive use of the room beginning January 1, 1975, and which received no definite response from the commission) the Community Theatre intends to offer six to ten productions per year, each running five to six weeks.

A peninsula-wide organization, six of the eleven members of the board of governors of the Community Theatre are Carmel residents. The group has presented amateur dramatic productions for more than 50 years, and for the last 14 years has operated under the auspices of the "Carmel Players" and the "Golden Bough Players."

Testament for tomorrow

By GUNNAR NORBERG
Carmel City Councilman

During the past week there has been a great deal of discussion about the filling of the position of Fifth District because of the unexpected resignation of the man--Willard Branson-- who has held that position for the past several years.

Because vacancies on any county board of supervisors are filled by gubernatorial appointment, and because the incumbent governor, Ronald Reagan, is a Republican, this discussion has mainly involved people who have been involved in Republican party affairs over a period of years.

Because I headed a Republican club at various times during the 1960s, many Republicans have talked with me about the appointment of a successor to Branson as the county supervisor representing the district which includes the cities of Pacific Grove, Monterey, and Carmel, as well as the unincorporated areas beyond those cities.

Since I have been largely inactive so far as Republican party affairs have been concerned in recent years, I have pointed out that I would presently have little influence on a choice if it were to be made strictly on a party basis. As readers no doubt know, the position of county supervisor is by definition-- a non-partisan one. Since, however, the position of county supervisor can be a stepping stone to specifically partisan advancement, the filling of a supervisorial position by gubernatorial appointment, can be a matter of state-wide party concern.

More important to me than the specific party label of the appointee, is the view of that appointee concerning the pressing problems which continually beset the urbanized unincorporated areas outside the boundaries of the City of Carmel. These areas most importantly include the thousands of acres up and down the Carmel Valley, in Pebble Beach, in Jack's Peak, in the Carmel Highlands, and up and down the scenically spectacular coast between Carmel and Big Sur and beyond, as well as the large unincorporated subdivisions just outside the City of Carmel.

While voters in the cities of Pacific Grove and Monterey, as well as those in Carmel, can decide who the 5th District supervisor is to be-- when that choice is a matter of election-- the 5th District supervisor and his fellow members on the county board of supervisors, actually have little to say about affairs inside of those incorporated cities, because county supervisors essentially govern only the areas outside of all the incorporated cities.

Because this is the case, and because the main urbanized unincorporated areas in Monterey County are either just outside Carmel or in areas just beyond those, it seems to me that the 5th District Supervisor should reside somewhere in those portions of what's called the 5th Supervisorial District. And the 5th District Supervisor in most of the past two decades, has indeed resided either in the Carmel Valley or just down the coast from Carmel.

With this much preamble, let me advise readers who are interested, to communicate their own views about a 5th Supervisorial District appointnment, to Governor Ronald Reagan, to State Senator Donald Grunsky, or to Assemblyman Robert Wood, if the actual appointment has not already been made by the time these words appear in print.

To me the most important step that could be taken with regard to the government of all the presently unincorporated areas up and down the coast and up and down the Carmel Valley-- and including the City of Carmel-- would be the establishment by state law of what I have called a "Heritage City" status for all those areas.

For readers who may be newly come to this specially endowed portion of the California coast, I would suggest that they get hold of a copy of the March 4th, 1971, issue of the Carmel Pine Cone, which included a special four-page supplement called "The Norberg Plan for a Heritage City".

At present there are two kinds of cities in the state of California--charter cities such as Monterey, and general-law cities such as Carmel. Neither of these categories of cities have been given sufficient authority by the state legislature to excercise definitive control of their respective destinies. Because this is the case, I proposed my "Heritage City" concept, that a new and third category of city be created by the state legislature, and that Carmel and its environs, be the first to be given "Heritage City" status.

For the past two years, my "Heritage City" proposal has been in the hands of the state's Council on Intergovernmental Relations, and more specifically in that of the Task Force on Local Government Reform. In a letter last December from Ronald Magyar, assistant to Governor Reagan, he said, in part:

"Insofar as the Task Force is concerned, I believe a thorough evaluation of the Heritage City concept would demand a commitment of time and resources exceeding that which has been made available for our study... As you well know, the Heritage City concept would be rather complex in its implementation... You are recommending fundamental amendments to law in the areas of land use, taxation, assessment practices, and school control...".

At the present time the Heritage City proposal is before the staff of the Central Coast Conservation Commission which is headed by Charles Kramer of Pebble Beach who has taken a leading role during the past decade in protecting important environmental values up and down the coast.

In a letter last month, Edward Y. Brown, executive director of the Central Coast Conservation Commission, said of the Heritage City proposal:

"...We will indeed evaluate your proposal with respect to our planning program..."

Meanwhile there are efforts being made in various states to acheive the sort of local authority I had described in the Heritage City concept, to try to preserve for posterity the special scenic and cultural values which people in other states see for treasured areas in their respective states.

Beacuse the noted artist, Donald Teague, had a great many reprints made of the Pine Cone supplement in which my Heritage City proposal was outlined, I have been able to give interested individuals from other states their own copies of the proposal.

Because the Heritage City proposal would involve far more strict controls of land development and of land use than now are exercised anywhere, some of the inquiries for copies of the proposal are surprising. For example, a few months ago, a man who identified himself as the chief lobbyist for a major oil company before the Texas legislature, said he and others wanted to protect, against excessive development, a community in the vicinity of Austin, and thought the Heritage City concept might help to crystallize that effort.

Other inquiries for copies of the Heritage City proposal have come from people in states as far away as Virginia and Pennsylvania.

To me it would seem ironic if some version of the Heritage City proposal were to be realized first in some other state than California. At the same time, such a development could indirectly help to bring about its realization here in California, and more specifically in the coast and valley areas centered upon Carmel.

If the individual who is appointed to succeed Willard Branson as 5th District Supervisor were to be willing to consider the possibility of a special Heritage City status for all of the truly extraordinary coast and valley areas centered upon Carmel, that could be a great advantage in the effort to preserve the scenic and cultural advantages of those areas for posterity.

Sunset Views:

By FRANK M. RILEY
Director, SCCC

About 30 people came out for the pruning clinic conducted at Sunset Center by Greg D'Ambrosio and Ray Didyck on the 12th. The construction work in the parking area created some noise and confusion that we had not planned on; but in spite of the inconvenience, a lot of good information was provided and many have asked that we have another session sometime soon. We will keep in contact with the Forestry and Gardening Department and will keep you informed about developments. In the meantime if you have comments or suggestions, let us know.

You will have noticed an announcement of classes available at Sunset Center. The variety is wide and we think that many of you may be interested in taking one or more of the courses. Why not sign up today? It's great to sit around and procrastinate but a little positive action gets better results. Phone the office or write in to register. No class will be held if less than 12 enroll; you may be the one whose name will make one of these classes possible.

Another thing to stop thinking about is buying your tickets for the Carmel Festival of Dance at Sunset Center Theatre. The 1974-75 season brings you four superb dance companies and the season ticket saves you 25 per cent over box office prices. You can still get a good reserved seat, but the longer you wait the less the selection becomes. The first show is scheduled for October 22 - less than a month away now - and it will be the 40-member National Dance Company of Sengal direct from Africa presenting a very exciting show. The beauty and wonder of African culture unfolds giving us a greater understanding of the feelings and emotions of Black people throughout the world and of the university of humanity. So, don't just sit there -- get tickets today. You'll enjoy all four performances.

Don't forget the free noontime films on Tuesdays. This week we offer "Eclipse of the Sun," a scientific explanation of how an eclipse is studied and what scientists learn from such study; "A World of Tea," about how different people around the world relate to this favorite beverage; and, "This is My Home," which compares life styles in places as far apart as Kenya and Mayfair and Japan.

Bring your lunch and a friend and enjoy the noontime break. Remember--you can get to Sunset Center on the bus!

Babysitting, cooking

Youth center classes set

Kay Russo, Recreation Supervisor for the City of Monterey Park and Recreation Department, announces two new programs to be offered at the Monterey Youth Center.

A baby sitting class, open to boys and girls ages 7 to 14, is scheduled to begin Wednesday, October 9 and will continue for ten consecutive weeks from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m. The class is an instruction in the fundamentals of baby sitting, emphasizing responsibilities and techniques of proper child care. Safety precautions and general situations encountered by the baby sitter will be covered so as to provide some background experiences for future sitting jobs. Upon the successful completion of this course, each person will receive a letter of recommendation from the City of Monterey and a certificate of achievement.

Registration fee is $5.00 for Monterey residents and $6.00 for non-residents. The instructor is Nancy Buhavac. Interested youngsters who wish to enroll in the baby sitting class may register at the first class meeting at the Monterey Youth Center.

A cooking class for boys and girls ages 7 to 12 will begin Tuesday, October 8 and will continue for ten consecutive weeks from 4:00 to 5:30 p.m.

The class is an instruction in the fundamentals of cooking and serving meals. The class is designed for fun and will cover the preparation of foods that are fun to make and eat.

Registration fee which covers food supplies and material is $10. The class is limited to 30 children. Interested youngsters who wish to enroll may do so by calling the Recreation Dept. at 372-8121, ext. 281 or by registering at the first class meeting at the Youth Center. The instructor of this class is Nancy Buhavac.

Further information is available by phoning 372-8121, ext. 281.

10 YEARS AGO the annual Fiesta de San Carlos de Boromeo, patron saint of Carmel Mission Basilica, drew over 300 persons for a chicken barbeque. This year's fiesta will be held Sunday at the Mission.

REMEMBER WHEN?

50 YEARS AGO:

from the Pine Cone
Saturday, October 4, 1924

The main portion of Hotel Del Monte is a mass of charred and twisted ruins. At 3 o'clock last Saturday morning fire was discovered in a room below the tower. A chemical extinguisher proved insufficient and, fanned by the drafts in the many hallways and corridors, the flames soon got beyond control and spread rapidly.

The fire departments of Monterey and Pacific Grove rendered splendid service. Within three hours the fire was under control and the two wings of the great building saved from destruction. This was not accomplished however, without resorting to the use of three charges of dynamite. After each charge had exploded the firemen rushed into the corridors to halt the flames with water and chemicals.

The loss to hotel property has been estimated at $1,500,000. Losses of personal property of officials, employees, and guests is probably $250,000. Insurance to the amount of$1,000,000 was carried.

Over 700 guests were in the hotel, every room being occupied. Two conventions were going on, that of the semi-annualgolf tournament of the Olympic Club, and that of the electrical jobbers.

The death of Lotta Crabtree, who died in Boston last week, was quite a shock to Carmelites who made her acquaintance when she was here in November, 1915, when she was a guest of Pine Inn for two weeks following a strenuous round of activities at the Panama-Pacific Exhibition.

Having learned of Lotta's intense love for the California poppy, George H. Shields, who was manager of the Pine Inn at the time, sent her a golden bunch of flowers.

25 YEARS AGO:

The Carmel Realty Board's appearl to Carmel property owners to declare themselves on the question of the advisability of rent decontrol for this area has so far failed to produce the desired response. To date only two letters have reached the board, although hundreds of property owners are directly affected by rent control, points out the board's publicity chairman, Mrs. Reginald Le Mon.

Monterey Peninsula residents were notified by mail this week of the date of the public hearing when the California Water and Telephone Company will appeal for a 15 per cent raise in rates.

The hearing will be held by the State Public Utilities Commission in Few Memorial Hall of Records, Monterey, at 10:30 a.m., October 3.

Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce has taken the initiative to organize opposition in Monterey and Pacific Grove, and will appeal to the three Peninsula cities to furnish for legal costs. About 15 civic and service organizations on the peninsula have gone on record as being opposed to any increase in rates, among them the Carmel Business Association.

Casting is now complete for Stage Door, a Forest Theater Guild play which will be presented as a benefit for the Community Chest on October 27,28,29, at Sunset School Auditorium.

10 YEARS AGO:

From the Pine Cone
Thursday October 1,1964

Steps toward thinning the long lines of all-day parkers on each side of the streets in the residence zone on the edges of the commercial district were taken last night when the city council began work on an ordinance which will require off-street parking for business district tenants and employees.

At present, under an interim ordinance, such parking is required for all new business developments. The interim law expires on February 5, 1965, and the council last night decided to make a valiant effort to have the permanent law completed by this date or soon thereafter.

An appeal to interested citizens for help in developing curricula that will meet the education requirements and demands of parents and citizens in the Carmel Unified School District will be made, the district's trustees agreed last night.

They devoted considerable time to discussion of this proposal and finally decided to appoint a citizens committee to set up ways and means of improving the district's curricula although no criticism of present instruction is apparent.

Columbia Pictures has started filming "The Ballad of Cat Ballou," a story written by the late Roy Chanslor of Carmel.

Jane Fonda will play the part of the heroine Roy created--Cat Ballou, a young girl of the Old West in the 1890's.

On a tour of the United States, Spain's minister of information, holding the diplomatic rank of counsellor of embassy, Don Manuel Fraga Iribarne, will be in Carmel on October 24 and 25.

Sam Smith, president of Carmel Rancho Inc., the organization which developed and operates the shopping center at the entrance to the Carmel Valley, this morning said he had "no comment" to make on a report that the shopping center has been acquired by Havic Corporation, an investment and development firm which owns LaPlaya Hotel.

A question-answer period will conclude the evening.

Saturday's program "Current Responses to Alcoholism," will feature speakers LTC, Harry R. Lascola, president of the Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism, Art Woodfin from the Jaycee's "Operation Threshold," and many others.

Sections featured in the program will include "Living Well in a Drinking World;" "The World of the Alcoholic;" a film, "Time for Decision;" a panel on local services in Monterey County will be presented where more information will be available. ALEXANDER CALDER

WAH CHANG

Now to Oct. 2

Calder

Wah Chang

ALEXANDER CLADER is an artist who, in almost every sense, turns out to have a heavy influence on the art of his time. He originated the mobile and stabile. Calder started out making toys and has never really separated art and toys. He has retained the creativity of a child and tempered it by his engineering training. He has been called a "sophisticated primitive."
Alexander Calder - Born in Pennsylvania in 1898 he originally studied engineering. Calder turned to art in 1923 and in 1926 he moved to Paris where he now resides.

WAH CHANG has contributed his talents as sculpture and artist to film makers from Walt Disney to MGM. He created the masks in the Ballet sequence of the "King and I" as well as the fanciful animal masks for a similar sequence in "Can-Can." These masks will be on display during the show. Mr. Chang's remarkable imagination has also been used to create many of the strange creatures appearing on the TV series "Outer Limits" and "Star Trek."
Now living in Carmel, he has turned his abilities as an artist to the creation of extremely accurate life-like sculptures of some of the worlds' endangered wildlife.

'Private Lives' comedy continues

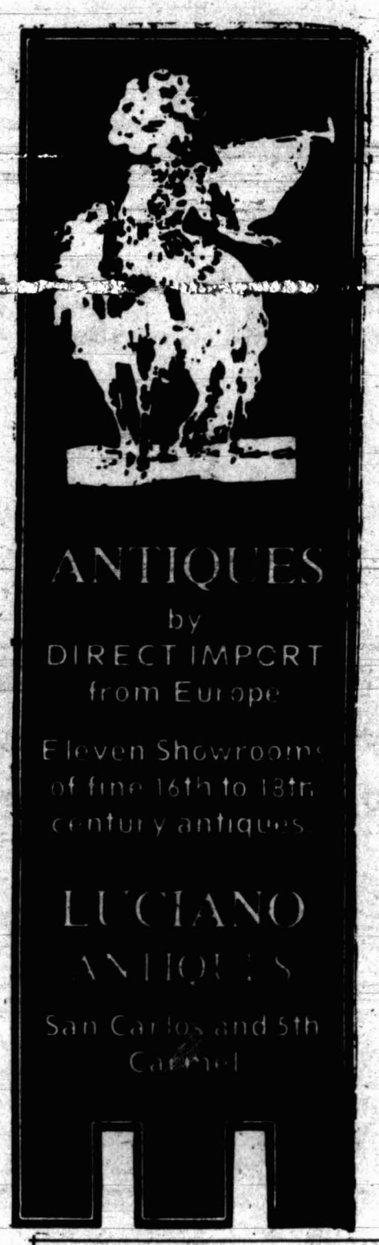

The comedy "Private Lives" will continue in Monterey Peninsula College's Standing Room Only - SRO - Theatre on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 27-28 and Oct. 4-5 at 8:30 p.m.

According to director Ms. Nancy Servies, the story was written by Noel Coward and will be performed as a 1931 period piece.

Due to a reattraction from their previous marriage, "Eliot" leaves with "Amanda" and "Victor" and "Sibyl" follow in hot pursuit. The resulting sequences in their re-encounter lead to unmatched hilarity.

The cast of MPC Players includes Audrey Swanson and Kevin Lenzen as "Amanda and Victor Prynne," Beb Leudtke III and Margaret Ursettie as "Eliot and Sibyl Chase," and Billie Lee as "Louise."

General admission is $1.50 at the door and $1 for students and military.

ELLEN GILBERT, a Danish pianist, will present a recital at Santa Catalina School October 2 at 8 p.m. She will play selections from Beethoven, Moussorgsky and Chopin, as well as pieces by Danish composers, Buxtehude and Kuhnau.

Pianist to present rarely heard program

Danish pianist Ellen Gilberg will present a program of rarely heard works of two Danish composers, Buxtehude and Kuhnau, as well as selections from Beethoven, Moussorgsky and Chopin at Santa Catlina School, October 2 at 8 p.m.

Miss Gilberg, a child prodigy in her homeland where she was hailed as a "Wunderkind," has appeared during her long successful career with the Orchestre National in Paris and for U.N.E.S.C.O.'s international concerts in the Theatre des Champs-Elysees, as well as in recital at Wigmore Hall in London.

The pianist studied under Doctor Isador Philipp in Paris and after World War II became his assistant teacher in New York. Pierre Monteux, Arthur Rubinstein and Eugene Ormandy were particularly enthusiastic about the sensitivity of her musicianship.

Critics compare her musical interpretations to those of Schnable and Gieseking.

The concert is free to the public.

W.C. Fields movie on tap

W.C. Fields will be featured in the third segment of Monterey Peninsula College's film gallery, "A Night of Nostalgia," in his film "Never Give A Sucker An Even Break" which will be screened Saturday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. in the MPC Theatre.

This is W.C. Fields' last important film. Fields plays a character known as the Great Man, a broken down movie hack who tries to sell a script to Esoteric Studios, and acts out each episode.

Tossed out of the studio, Fields encounters a woman who is anxious to get to the local hospital. Mistakenly thinking that childbirth is imminent, he offers her a ride in his car and embarks on one of the wildest chase sequences ever filmed.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12.

PARTY PLANS

Tea - time is here again

By PHYLLIS JERVEY

Brisk Americans are prone to regard the British tea as a waste of time when our coffee breaks can do the job. But how welcome on a coolish day is a well-brewed cup of tea poured steaming from its china pot. With committee meetings in order the afternoon tea has resumed its rightful place at this season.

Early Californians followed the Spanish precedent of lovely meriendas (tea parties) as a most charming custom. The table was covered by ones best lace and linens, porcelain or silver tea service and flowers.

The British also include hot breads & scones, muffins or crumpets. Tiered stands of small cakes. There would be game, meat or small fruit tarts. This is where we differ and instead of substantial "high teas" we simplify ours up to weight-watcher standards...at the most 3 types of open-face sandwiches, one or two cakes, a few cookies and ripe fresh strawberries (this adopted from our English cousins.)

Here on this cosmopolitan Peninsula the Alliance Francaise has once a month French conversation teas. Coffee is also served with an assortment of homemade cakes, petit fours, puff pastry bouchees but everything sweet. I personally prefer a few very small low calorie hors d'oeuvre style rounds. But chacun a son gout..everyone to his own taste. On Saturday, Sept. 28 at 3 p.m. there will be the first committee meeting of the Fall season at the lovely villa of Dr. and Mrs. Sorin Issvoran, Mmes. Jerome Carlson and John Dowdakin are co-hostesses. The three ladies are French as is Mme. Danielle Cooper, recently returned from France and Africa. Election of board officers are to be held.

Following are some ideas for these get togethers whether they be French, American or British. There is also the much more complicated Japanese tea ceremony but we will save this for another time.

Ribbon Sandwiches: Use fresh or day-old bread. For each stack alternate 3 slices wholewheat with 2 white, spreading each with canned liver paste sparked with lemon juice, chopped ripe olives, dusting of paprika. Combine with cream cheese to which a slight dash of Tabasco has been added. Press each stack of slices firmly together. With sharp knife in sawing motion, removed crusts. Put on cookie sheet, cover with waxed paper, Saran or foil. Refrigerate several hours, Cut into half-inch slices, then into thirds, halves or triangles.

Variations of tea-sandwich spreads are Shrimp Butter: One cup butter, 1 cup minced canned shrimp, salt to taste, 1 Tbsp. or more lemon juice, dash paprika. Cream butter well. Grind shrimp to a paste, combine with butter and seasoning. Spread on melba toast rounds. For expediency let this be self-service.

Combine crunchy Peanut Butter with minced green peppers. Add enough mayonnaise to make right consistency for spreading.

Party Sandwich Olive Flowers: Slice pimento stuffed olives thinly, combine with chopped parsley and watercress and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Cut bread into rectangles about 1 or 2 inches. Spread with softened cream cheese. Use sliced olive for flower bloom and green pepper strips for stem & leaves, or use Grated cheese with grated carrots, season with chili sauce and enough mayonnaise to moisten, add salt & pepper. Spread on small crustless open face whole wheat bread rounds.

Roll-Up Party Sandwiches: For these, trim crusts from thin fresh bread slices. Roll lightly with rolling pin. Spread each with softened sweet butter mixed with chopped watercress or young green spinach leaves & stems from which all sand has been removed. Add lemon juice and Tabasco lightly. Roll up & serve cut in halves or thirds with a spring of watercress tucked in one end. You could a canned asparagus tip or stuffed celery heart in whole slice & roll up. Cover with slightly dampened cloth.

Refrigerate until serving time.

Little Puffs: One stick butter; speck of salt; ½ cup all-purpose flour, 2 eggs. Preheat over to 400 F. In saucepan slowly bring 1 cup water with butter and salt to boiling. Remove from heat. With wooden spoon beat in flour all at once. Return to low heat; continue beating until mixture forms ball & leaves sides of pan. Remove from heat & add eggs one at a time, beating hard each time until smooth. Continue beating until dough is shiny and satiny and breaks in strands. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 25-30 min. until golden brown. Let cool on wire rack, away from drafts. Cut off tops. Fill with chicken, tuna, crab salad containing chopped celery, mayonnaise & seasonings. Shells may be frozen & used day of party, warmed up after defrosting. Double for large party.

Madeleines de France: One stick butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour; ¼ tsp. vanilla. confectioner's sugar. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, cream until light & fluffy. Add eggs, beat well. Beat over ice if butter tends to melt. Fold in flour, add vanilla. Pour into well-buttered molds, oval with flutings. This produces a cake looking like a double shell. Bake at 375F. for about 10-15 minutes. Dust lightly with confectioner's sugar.

Petits fours, eclairs the tiny ones chocolate-cream filled, and other French favorites such as apricot tarts are in favor at the Alliance Francaise meetings. All the French members are pastry experts and prepare these delicacies with such ease. But for many of us the sweets would be easier to manage if purchased at one of Carmel's fine bake shops.

Finally, large fresh strawberries with long stems are lovely in a glass bowl ready to be dipped into powdered sugar. The British dote on clotted Devonshire cream to accompany their berries. We could substitute yogurt or low cal. ready whip.

Haven't you always wanted to own a piece of Dansk©?

Or another piece, if you already have one?

Most people who own Dansk (top of the table designs) want more. Which is understandable. Dansk designs are in museums the world over.

Now the Dansk II shop offers you a special way to own Dansk. At special prices.

From 33 to 66 percent less than you'd ordinarily pay.

We have experimental pieces. Pure Dansk designs that proved too costly to market. We have discontinued pieces, patterns and colors. (You'll wonder why.)

And we have pieces that came out of the kilns which do not conform to Dansk standards. Flaws are invisible, we may add, and do not affect utility (or beauty).

The extraordinarily attractive prices make Dansk II worth a visit the very first day you can.

Which is why we're open every day.

BSIA plans open house

A "Happening on the Hill" sponsored by the Auxiliary of Behavioral Sciences Institute will take place on Sunday, September 29 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Auxiliary members, headed by President Mrs. Rex Anderson, cordially invite everyone to come to this Open House at the new campus of BSI in Carmel Highlands.

Mrs. Harrington E. Drake, chairman, has planned a program of food and music. Auxiliary hostesses will serve complimentary wine and cheese. Reta Rogers and Bob Lebhart will be playing continuous music on Conn Eelctric Organs. Picnic style food will be catered for those who wish to have luncheon on the scenic grounds, overlooking the Pacific.

Because of lack of parking space at the campus, mini buses will take visitors throughout the day from Carmel Rancho Shopping Center starting at 10:45 a.m.

Behavorial Sciences Institute, under the direction of Dr. Gene England, began in 1965 as the Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing. Since then, the School has expanded and larger quarters were needed.

Last year the Institute purchased the former Kent Estate in Carmel Highlands from Stanford University. The long-range plan is to acquire the full 100-acre campus from Stanford to preserve the natural beauty of the surrounding land.

A recent grant from the Bureau of Education, Office of Education, will allow BSI to start an early education center on its campus. Children accepted will be from four to eight years.

BSI now has satellite Learning Centers in Monterey, Salinas, Castroville, Watsonville and Santa Cruz.

Another new program recently developed by BSI consists of bringing a speech pathologist to stroke patients in local convalescent hospitals to help with their recovery.

The Auxiliary of Behavioral Sciences Institute has been working all year, through its various projects, to raise funds for the Institute to continue its work.

Those projects have included a House and Garden Tour in April, the opening of a re-sale shop call "The Turn-About" under the direction of Mrs. Ronald Markham, a "Super" Garage Sale, supervised by Mrs. John Duncan and a future project called "Christmas-by-the-Sea" a three-day gala to be held at the La Playa Hotel in Carmel. Over twenty non-profit organizations will display and sell original creations and compete for the $500 in prize money being donated by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Allen, owners of the La Playa Hotel. This event will be co-sponsored by BSI Auxiliary and the La Playa.

Auxiliary hostesses who will greet visitors at the "Happenning on the Hill" are: Mrs. Willard Branson, Mrs. Alexander Hyde, Mrs. Barbara Haber, Mrs. B.J. Lattner, Mrs. Kenneth Gardner, Mrs. Earl Carminati, Mrs. Douglas Brown, Mrs. Ronald Markham, Mrs. Judson Sherrill, Mrs. Harrington Drake and Mrs. Jean Z. Graham.

For further information call Mrs. Harrington Drake at 624-9465.

United Fund goal set

James C. Glaser, Jr., the 1974-75 United Fund drive chairman, has announced a goal of $260,000 for this year's campaign.

This figure represents a four percent increase over the 1973-74 target amount of $250,000. Donations from last year's drive actually totaled $252,311, a new record for the annual Monterey Peninsula campaign.

Glaser stated that the volunteer committees are organized and ready to officially start the drive. It will continue for two months.

"I know that I can speak for all our workers," he said, "we are very eager to get underway, especially knowing that this one gift will help so many people here on the peninsula."

The theme for the campaign is "People Helping People the United Way." The money raised will financially benefit fourteen local charitable agencies, including the Alcoholism Council, Boy's Club of America-Seaside, the Monterey Peninsula Council of Girl and Boy Scouts, Family Service Agency, Gateway Center, Fort Ord Youth Center, Handicapped Activities, U.S.O., and Suicide Prevention.

THE FIESTA DE SAN CARLOS BORROMEO will be held September 29 at the Carmel Mission on Rio Road from 12 to 5 P.M. An al fresco chicken barbeque will be served all afternoon.

Entertainment will be offered from 12 to 5 beginning with Charlie Brown and his accordian from noon until 1 P.M.

The Jan Kessler Mime Troupe will perform at 1 P.M., a Mariachi Bank at 2 P.M., flamenco dancers at 3 P.M.. and Su Perry will sing and play guitar at 4 P.M.

Born in Yugoslavia, Dr. Tadmor received an M.A. degree in history and a Diploma of Adademic Secondary School Education from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, and a Doctorate in Education from Columbia University's Teachers College.

Prior to his appointment as Consul General, Dr. Tadmor held the position of Special Assistant to the President of the Weizman Institute in Rehovot, Israel. From 1962-1969 he was the director of International Relations with the Ministry of Education and Culture and the Executive Secretary of the National Council for Higher Education in Jerusalem. Blithe Spirit hits at The Studio

By Leslie Johnson

While the audience rocks with laughter over Betty Fowlston's portrayal of Madame Arcati, the Studio Theater cast of "Blithe Spirit" moves through their Noel Coward poses with finesse, even though without final polish.

Miss Fowlston obviously is having a ball performing Madame Arcati, the character actress' character. With overwhelming enthusiasm, she takes over the stage and uses every prop to her utmost advantage, upstaging her fellows and enjoying every minute of it. She avoids the temptation to overdo this part, which naturally calls for exaggeration.

The pace of the comedy moves a little too slowly in the first scene, with the actors posing a little excessively and straining some with the necessary English accents. Once the play itself gets moving, the actors carry it along naturally, assuming identities rather than performing roles.

Susie Polk is delightful as Ruth, petulant and patient in turn and convincing throughout the production. She moves well on stage and wears the costumes of the period attractively.

Miss Polk brings a realism to her role that improves as the play progresses. As she gets caught up in the action and prepares to defend her marriage from the menacing shade of her husband's first wife, her actions and reactions become increasingly effective.

Peter McGee's performance as Charles improves vastly after the appearance of his first wife's ghost. His terror and enjoyment of the situation are real enough and he performs comedy while avoiding schtick.

Toni Field's Elvira is a bit wispy at first with little substance, but as the character becomes more firmly entrenched in the Condomine household, her portrayal becomes more stable and remains so to the end.

Renee Wurzmann's exotic beauty combines well with her mannerisms as the American doctor's wife. Al Hood is adequate as Dr. Bradman, but one imagines a real person would show a little more reaction than the character we see on stage. Margaret Reed is fun as Edith, the maid with little grace, but other redeeming qualities.

The comedy plays Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays at the Studio Theatre, through Oct. 27. The theatre's next production will be the popular British farce "No Sex Please, We're British."

BLITHE SPIRIT, currently playing at The Studio Theatre features Susie Polk, left, Betty Fowlston and Margaret Reed.

NEW RECORDINGS

TELEMANN: SUITE IN A MINOR; CONCERTO IN F MAJOR; HANDEL: CONCERTO IN B FLAT MAJOR – FOR RECORDER, STRINGS AND CONTINUO – (David Munrow, treble and descant recorder-Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields conducted by Neville Marriner – Angel S-37019).

The Telemann Suite in A minor follows the same basic pattern as Bach's orchestral suites. It is in seven short sections, an overture and six dance-like movements. David Munrow, playing the treble recorder, with the orchestral accompaniment accentuating the dotted rhythms of the "French overture" style, gave this opening section an idiomatic and expressive exposition in the true Baroque style. The six dance-like sections that followed were delivered by both the soloist and the chamber orchestra with clarity, tonal coloration, and dynamic implications.

The Sammartini Concerto in F, for the descant recorder (pitched in D, a sixth above the treble) was given a solo performance by David Munrow that had a sparkling, intuitive perorative effect, with a freely-flowing stylistic brilliancy. In the slow Siciliano movement, Mr. Munrow developed an exquisite lyric line, rising above the orchestra's finely-defined rhythmic and harmonic contours.

The Handel Concerto in B flat has been reconstructed for the treble recorder from Handel's Organ Concerto No. 6, Op. 4. In this work, Mr. Munrow exposes the two outer movements with extreme delicacy, refinement, and idiomatic expressiveness, while the slow movement is delineated in a meditative and highly variegated form with the interplay of the solo instrument, continuo and orchestra in a finely-attuned balance.

The surfaces are flawless; the sound is a marvel of melodic brilliancy; and this disc can be highly recommended for its sheer beauty and authencity of performance.

SCHUBERT: SONATA IN C MINOR, D. 958; IMPROMPTU IN A FLAT, OP. 142-No. 2 (Sviatoslav Richter, pianist -- Melodya-Angel SR-40254)

This work is conceived on a large scale, and written in a tremendously sweeping manner. From the opening Allegro, where melody reigns supreme, to the unmatched beauty and poetic expressiveness of the Adagio, heightened in the Menuetto, and climaxed by the overpowering energy and wealth of musical ideas of the final Allegro, this sonata becomes a supreme dramatic adventure.

Richter, being unquestionably one of the most outstanding virtuosos as well as renowned for his interpretations of Schubert's music, it was immediately evident from the first chords that there would ensue a performance of tremendous impact. He has all the elements that make for a great musician as well as an impeccable interpreter -- powerful dynamics, wonderful evaluation of nuances, absolute phrasing, exquisite tone coloration, and a fantastic display of finely-attuned intonation. By this performance, he exposes the lyrical aspect of this work in its darker and sterner qualities with breadth, power and thrilling execution. The Impromptu in A flat, also played by him on this disc, is projected in a similar vein, with all his pianisyic bravura and musical evocation in a rendition of evaluation that has a validity beyond the scope of this miniature gem.

The surfaces are excellent; the piano tone is true and brilliant. This disc can be recommended very highly as a definitive performance of this wonderful posthumous sonata, and its accompanying Impromptu.

MENDELSSOHN: DIE ERSTE WALPURGISNACHT, CANTATA, OP. 60, "INFELICE," CONCERT ARIA, OP. 94 -- (Solosits, Leipzig Radio Chorus, Gewandaus Orchestra conducted by Kurt Masur -- Angel S-37016).

This disc features a first recording of these two works of Mendelssohn. "The First Walpurgis Night," is his most important setting of Goethe's poetry. The poem is concerned with a gathering of Pagans and Druids who are celebrating the Walpurgis Night Festival, and disguise themselves as demons in order to frighten away Christian intruders.

The Gewandhaus Orchestra performs the extended instrumental Overture in a sombre and mysterious manner, delivering it with forceful energy; the movements that follow, whether vocally accompanied or alone, were treated in a serene, subdued manner, further followed by the Orchestra in a vivid and pronounced exposition, and leading to a climactic finale that was exposed with exquisite and powerful tonality. The soloists (Annelies Burmeister, contralto; Eberhard Buchner, tenor; Siegfried Lorenz, baritone, and Siegried Vogel, bass) have rather short parts, but they contrast and coordinate most effectively with the orchestral tutti to form a contiguous whole. The Leipzig Radio Chorus also sings with a great deal of inflective enthusiasm. It is gratifying to observe that this powerful and neglected work of Mendelssohn has finally been given a recorded version.

The Concert aria "Infelice," sung by the eminent soprano, Edda Moser, is a rather conventional piece, with, however, an effective appeal. This recitative and aria, as sung by this soprano (one of the greatest "Queen of the Night" performances in Mozart's "Magic Flute") was rendered in a most lyrical vein, with fine dramatic effect, as well as wonderful vocalism, giving this small work an impetus and agitative force far beyond its scoring.

The surfaces are excellent; the sound is bright, and this disc is most highly recommended.

RACHMANIOFF: SUITE FROM THE OPERA "ALEKO;" CAPRICE BOHEMIAN, OP. 12 (U.S.S.R. Symphony Orchestra conducted by Yevgeny Svetlanov-Melodya-Angel SR-40253).

This early student opera of Rachmaninoff has never caught on, nor is it ever performed, either here or in Europe. But a Suite drawn from it, consisting of five parts (Introduction, Dance of the Women, Intermezzo, Dance of the Men, and Scherzo) is a viable orchestral composition, and contains many moments of melodious and colorful atmospheric implications. The story is based on a Pushkin tale in which gypsy elements predominate. The U.S.S.R. Orchestra plays this Suite with virtuosity, concentrating on exposing the colorful tonality in a most compelling manner. The various sections are brilliantly performed, with the intrinsic lyric parts delineated with forceful and ingratiating vivacity. The whole Suite, in the typical Russian romantic vein, comes through with fine definite, and with exquisite, impusive intonation.

The Caprice Bohemien, also known as "Capriccio for large orchestra based on gypsy themes," could have had its origin from the talks that the composer held with the gypsy wife of one of his friends. Although the music, in its five sections, displays a characteristic momentum of the composer's work, it still is banal, and reveals itself as brashly bombastic. There is no question but that the U.S.S.R. Orchestra makes the most of the tonal colorations of this piece, rendering in a forceful and ingratiating affect ion.

The surfaces are flawless; the sound is most sonorous, and this disc, as a first recording, is recommended for its display of the melodic and romantic nature of the student composer.

Holst: The Planets (Andre Previn conducting the London Symphony Orchestra-Angel S-36991).

This music has no connection with the deities of classical mythology, but was suggested by the astrological significance of the planets. There are seven sections: I. Mars, the Bringer of War. This is martial music opening with strong rhythmic and counter-rhythmic forms; The basic melody appears in the trumpets and the horns; II. Venus, Bringer of Peace. Music of gentler mood, this section opens with a soft horn call to which delicate music for the flutes provides an answer. III. Mercury, the Winged Messenger. This is a scherzo whose effect is achieved by motor energy. IV. Jupiter, Bringer of Jollity. This gay music depicts an English country festival. The core is a melody which has the character of an English folksong. V. Saturn, Bringer of Old Age. This movement introduces a peaceful interlude. VI. Uranus, the Magician. By contrast to the preceding section, this one is in a jolly mood. VII. Neptune, the Mystic. The entire movement is pianissimo, in an atmosphere of mystery. At the end of this section, a hidden choir of women's voices sounds a sustained tone against a background of flutes and clarinets.

Andre Previn leads the London Symphony Orchestra in a spirit of magnificent evocation, with each movement being clearly and vividly defined. The Orchestra is in wonderful form, playing with an intense and most persuasive tonality, and with finely-drawn intonation, and rhapsodic, convincing delineation. They perform in a forceful, lyrical manner which is fully attuned to express with conviction and bravura the thematic musical material forming the score.

The surfaces are excellent, and the emerging sound is highly charged and intense. This disc can be highly recommended, not only for its vital dramatic values, but also for its musical and exotic tonal coloration.

MOZART: SIX WIND CONCERTOS (Herbert von Karajan conducting the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra and Soloists -- Angel SC-3783 (3 discs).

The Flute Concerto No. 1 in G, K.313, opens with an Allegro maestoso in a martial rhythm that Mozart made very much his own. The mood of the Adagio is established by a sombre, muted unison phrase, which is a straightforward arpeggio of the tonic key. The Rondo in minuet tempo is full of restrained geniality, but is consistent with what has preceded before. Andreas Blau plays the flute solo.

The Flute and Harp Concerto in C, K.299, falls into an inimitable pattern -- since the harp at the time lacked the modern modulating and other mechanical conveniences of the instrument -- its use became largely a simple melody, mostly in the middle register, in something resembling a keyboard part. The sustaining flute with its corresponding light tone, naturally takes over the treble melody. The orchestral accompaniment is necessarily of the lightest. The Andantino is graceful French salon music; the Rondo, a treatment of a French gavotte. James Galway is the flutist and Fritz Helma plays the harp.

The Oboe Concerto in C, K.314, is in all respects identical with the Flute Concerto in D, to which Koechel gave the number 314, and it must therefore be presumed that Mozart himself transcribed it for this latter instrument. The exposition is unusually luxuriant with the soloist adding new material to that already provided in the opening orchestral prelude. The Adagio is an eloquent love song of the kind found in the three great violin concertos, in which the oboe sustains long, cantabile phrases over the background of strings. The finale, a Rondo, is a particularly fresh and charming example of this genre. Lothar Koch is the oboist here.

The Clarinet Concerto in A, K.622, is Mozart's last concerto for any instrument, and is certainly his greatest in the wind category. Mozart drew upon the dulcet beauty of tone of this instrument, and never debases it as a thing for vain show. There is no provision for a cadenza in his work.

The Concerto, using a string accompaniment exclusively with the soloist, has a felicitous blending of reed tone with the string tone of quartet writing. At the same time, the concerto is symphonic, for the tutti add flutes, bassoons and horns, and becomes an important part of the whole, as in the long orchestral introduction. The ritornellos thus provide a delightful alternation with the more delicate combination. Karl Leister plays the clarinet solo.

In the Bassoon Concerto in B flat, K.191, the tonal allurements of the instrument, its best leaps and turns, its guttural velvet, are all skillfully brought out. Mozart put the instrument most gracefully through its paces, with a light accompaniment for strings alone. In the Andante, the strings are muted, resulting in one of the young Mozart's special movements of tender sentiment. Guenther Piesk plays the bassoon solo. The Sinfonia Concertante for Oboe, Clarinet, Horn, Bassoon with Orchestra, K.297b., is symphonic in its expanse, is the very definition of the title and in the character of its development. At the same time, it derives from the concerto grosso by the setting of the solo quartet, which is a sort of concertino against the orchestral tutti. The quartet is a unified group rather than a succession of soloists -- a "Harmoniemusik" -- where the individual voices are alternated, blended, interlaced, backed by the accompanying orchestra or relieved by the predominant string tone of the tutti. Only in the Adagio, where the melodic line is lengthened in time, does each soloist have his extended phrase, while accompanied by his fellows.

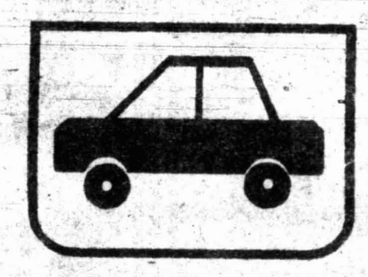

The first movement, which is the longest, is thematically rich and tends to prolong the development by the varied possibilities of color combination and alternation, which the composer has given himself. The long "cadenza" before the close is not used for virtuoso display, but in a sort of coda where the group as a whole demands the sole attention. The slow movement, an andante rather than an adagio, is where the solo players carry the melody in turn. The variation finale naturally permits solo virtuosity to come to the force, but always in a musically integrated way. The ten variations give special solo opportunities to the oboe or clarinet or the two together. The second variation brings the bassoon to prominence, and the eighth provides a duet by a melodic bassoon and an ornamental oboe on arpeggios. The horn has [illegible] solos, but its function is by no means subordinated. Each variation is rounded off by a recurring refrain from the tutti.

Woodpeckers: Retirement no barrier

Ralph Wilson, left, and Norm Angell stand beside a grandfather clock in the Del Mesa clubhouse that Mr. Angell built. Both men are active members in the Wookdpeckers.

Ralph Wilson and Gen. Ryan, the two founders of the Woodpeckers, shape a piece of wood on a jig saw in the Woordpecker Shop.

Moving into a retirement community has a lot of advantages for an older person; peace, quiet, and companionship with others of the same age, to name a few. But moving from the family home often means giving up a favorite hobby, or interest, for lack of space.

For instance, where do you put a workbench or jig saw?

Ralph Wilson, who just celebrated his 90th birthday several weeks ago, and General William Ryan, a resident of Del Mesa, were in the habit of puttering about in their own home shops before moving to Del Mesa. Six years ago when they moved into the retirement community they weren't ready to give up that pleasure.

Through their insistance, the developer of Del Mesa agreed to set aside a portion of the basement beneath the club house for the purpose of setting up a shop, and then turned over the reins of the operation to these two founders.

In this way, the "Woodpeckers," as they have come to call themselves, found a nest.

The Woodpeckers' first job was creating a work room out of a concrete basement.

"We got busy, we really got busy. Here was this concrete basement; we built shelves, tables, stools, painted, cleaned the walls and floors," explained Gen. Ryan.

Today the shop is more complete than most commercial woodworking shops and contains thousands of dollars worth of tools. They have a joiner, radial saw, sander, planer, jig saw, and drill press along with more standard equipment.

There are some interesting facts about this group of woodworkers. There are nearly forty men who work down in the shop and they average a total of more than 20 hours a day collectively. Most important, the average age of the members is over 70 years.

This is the only shop of this kind in the area and the projects that members are involved in very substanial ones.

Woodpecker treasurer, Norm Angell, is one of the newer members and he has already made several grandfather clocks. No small accomplishment.

Ralph Wilson specializes in repairing rickety chairs. One club room has a set of antique tables and chairs and Mr. Wilson has repaired practically all of them.

"Often there are widows in the community with furniture projects, such as broken chairs or tables, and we fix them up," explained Mr. Wilson.

Members have built the redwood benches located in gardens around the Club house. They have built a stage for their library-auditorium room as well as podiums and book carts.

The Woodpeckers is open only to interested member-residents of Del Mesa.

"We use the shop for our own pleasure and for manufacturing and repair projects that may be requested by members of Del Mesa," explained Gen. Ryan. "We do not attempt to compete with any commercial shop."

The wood-working group is completely self-supporting and never "sell" any of the work they do. Nor do they solicit their services. They do receive donations, but they never receive more than 50 per cent of the value of the work done.

Money that is donated goes toward repairing and buying new tools. All work is completely voluntary.

Woodpeckers only do work for Del Mesa residents, they never aceept work outside of their own community.

"If I have a friend down in Carmel who needs a table fixed, I have to say I'm sorry, I can't do it," said Gen. Ryan.

None of the men (and an occasional woman) who belong to the Woodpeckers retired from a career related to wood working. Rather, they were businessmen, military officers, engineers, and government employees. Ralph Wilson spent his "early years" as a business executive but about 70 per cent of the Woodpecker membership did have shops at home, many have donated tools.

The organization has rules and a controlling board. Presently Col. Vaughn heads the board.

The insignia for Del Mesa is an owl because so many owls live in the trees around the community. Ralph Wilson is well-known for specialty gifts he makes out of pine cones which squirrels have reduced to a diminutive size. He sticks a beak and eyes on to the small pine cone, and voila, it is an owl.

As he tells it, "One day a pine cone was happily growing on a tree, wanting nothing better than to be a bigger pine cone. But alas, a squirrel chewed the pine cone down to an even smaller size and left it on the ground. There it lay until one day a Woodpecker came along and transformed it into an owl."

BERLIN

Private arrangements have been made for Linda S. Berlin of Carmel who died Monday after collapsing in her home.

Contributions in her memory are prefered to St. Timothy Lutheran Church organ fund, 52 Soledad Drive, Monterey.

A 20 year resident of Carmel, she was born in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. She is survived by her husband, William Berlin of Carmel.

FERRANTE

No funeral services have been planned for Harriett Ferrante, a longtime Carmel resident and wife of prominent attorney and civic leader Peter Ferrante, who died Sunday of a heart attack during a visit to Santa Barbara with her husband.

Contributions may be made to the American Friends Society.

She was 71 years old. A native of Brooklyn, New York, she spent her early years in Cleveland where she graduated from Western Reserve University. She earned a master of science degree in chemistry from Stanford University.

Peterson earns win over Carmel

By DOUG THOMPSON

The manner in which the Carmel Padres came out of the locker room last Friday night, you would have thought they could have conquered the world. They were jumping up and down, yelling and all the factors that show a team is "up" for the game were apparent.

Their only problem was when the Peterson Pirates also showed up on the field. Not only did their uniforms resemble those of the Oakland Raiders, but at times they played like them.

It was obvious right away that Peterson was the bigger of the two teams. That is in physical size, not in the number of people as they were definately out-manned.

Carmel who failed to score in their last game against Harbor High, but salvaged a 0-0 tie, weren't quite as fortunate against Peterson, losing 21-0.

Joe Reyes got the Pirates on the board with 1:04 left in the first quarter when he ran 14 yards to make it 6-0. The score remained the same when Jeff Ryan blocked the conversion attempt.

Carmel Head Coach Jason Harbert maintained the defense just didn't do the job on the 65 yard, seven play drive.

Peterson in 44 rushing attempts gained 198 yards and a great deal of those yards could be attributed towards fullback Tony Nash. Nash in 11 runs picked up 102 yards for a sparkling 9.3 average including the Pirates second touchdown when he rambled 67 yards. Harbert felt after seeing the game films, that Nash should have been tackled after 25 or 30 yards of the run.

Frankie DeOcampo ran the conversion in on a fake kick to put the Pirates ahead 14-0 with 2:28 left in the half.

Daryl Hill capped the Peterson scoring when he went over from the one-yard line. Dan Wardlaw booted the PAT through the uprights and Peterson had won the ball game 21-0.

Harbert was particulary upset about that touchdown.

"We had just held Peterson on our own one-yard line and then fumbled the ball away on our eight."

Carmel's running game which gained 23 yards in 25 carries against Harbor, proved to have more of a running "attack" last week as they gained 143 yards in 31 carries for a strong 4.6 average.

Fullback Rand Makowski in eight rushes picked up 61 yards for a 7.6 average. Mike Chappell, Padre quarterback ran for 45 yards in 8 carries for a 5.6 average. Ed Canadas had a 6.0 average as he ran for 24 yards in four totes.

Chappell's passing statistics do unjustice to the senior signal-caller, as he had numerous passes dropped but still completed seven of 17 passes for 39 yards.

David Hare was called on late in the game to quarterback, and he connected on one pass in six attempts for 15 yards, and came close to getting the Padres in the end zone.

Harbert feels the Padres have to generate more consistency in their offense if they're going to start scoring points this year.

The Padres were hampered by injuries during the game.

Joe Gimbel was taken to the hospital when he suffered a collarbone injury: Gimbel is expected back in two or three weeks.

Steve Rilling and John Anderson both came up with bruised knees, which limited Rilling's action for the night, but Anderson saw considerable duty before leaving.

Rick Parker Carmel's 9.9 sprinter was also taken to the hospital when he suffered a concussion. He hit his head on a cement broad jump runway, after diving for a pass, which Harbert termed was a great effort. Rick is all right as he was released from the hospital that night.

"We were very fortunate the way our injuries turned out," claimed a relieved Harbert.

Harbert praised the punting of Jim Weller by commenting, "He's got us out of the hole many times by booming long punts."

The Head Coach also cited Makowski and Mike Criscola as having fine games on offense. Criscola filled in for Rilling during his injury, and the coach was very pleased with what he saw of the junior guard.

Harbert was pleased with the way the Padre defense didn't give up and stifled Peterson in the second half. The Pirates threatened three times but failed to score. The Head Coach continued on to say that he wasn't very happy with the first half performance by the defense.

On defense, linebacker Jeff Ryan, cornerback John Anderson and rover Jim Weller drew praise from Harbert. David Hare did a fine job at safety replacing Willy Fekeci in the second half. Harbert was also happy with the steady, consistent jobs turned in by tackles Thane Taylor and Mike Irwin who went "both ways."

What does the Padres next opponent look like? Well, Santa Clara is a good running team, like Peterson, but also have an adequate passing game to go along with the run.

"They have an adequate passing game to go along with the run.

"They have a great fullback, who also plays defensive linebacker. They are capable of throwing the bomb, and have a flanker similar to our own Parker," Harbert pointed out.

The Santa Clara Panthers will remember Parker as the one who caught the 80-yard touchdown pass in the last minute of last year's game beating them 17-14.

Harbert says he expects the same kind of game this year, even though this is the best Santa Clara team in three years. "This game will be a good indicator of just how far we have come along this year."

A couple of adjustments

Monterey Grand Prix coming to Laguna Seca

For the first time in the history of Laguna Seca Raceway, drivers representing the United States Auto Club (USAC) and the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) will compete against one another during the same race.

The event is the Monterey Grand Prix, the prestigious Formula 5000 Championship which will be held at the Monterey track on October 11, 12 and 13. Due to a recent coalition between USAC and SCCA, Laguna Seca fans will be treated to the sight of top-notch drivers from both bodies seeking the $50,000 purse.

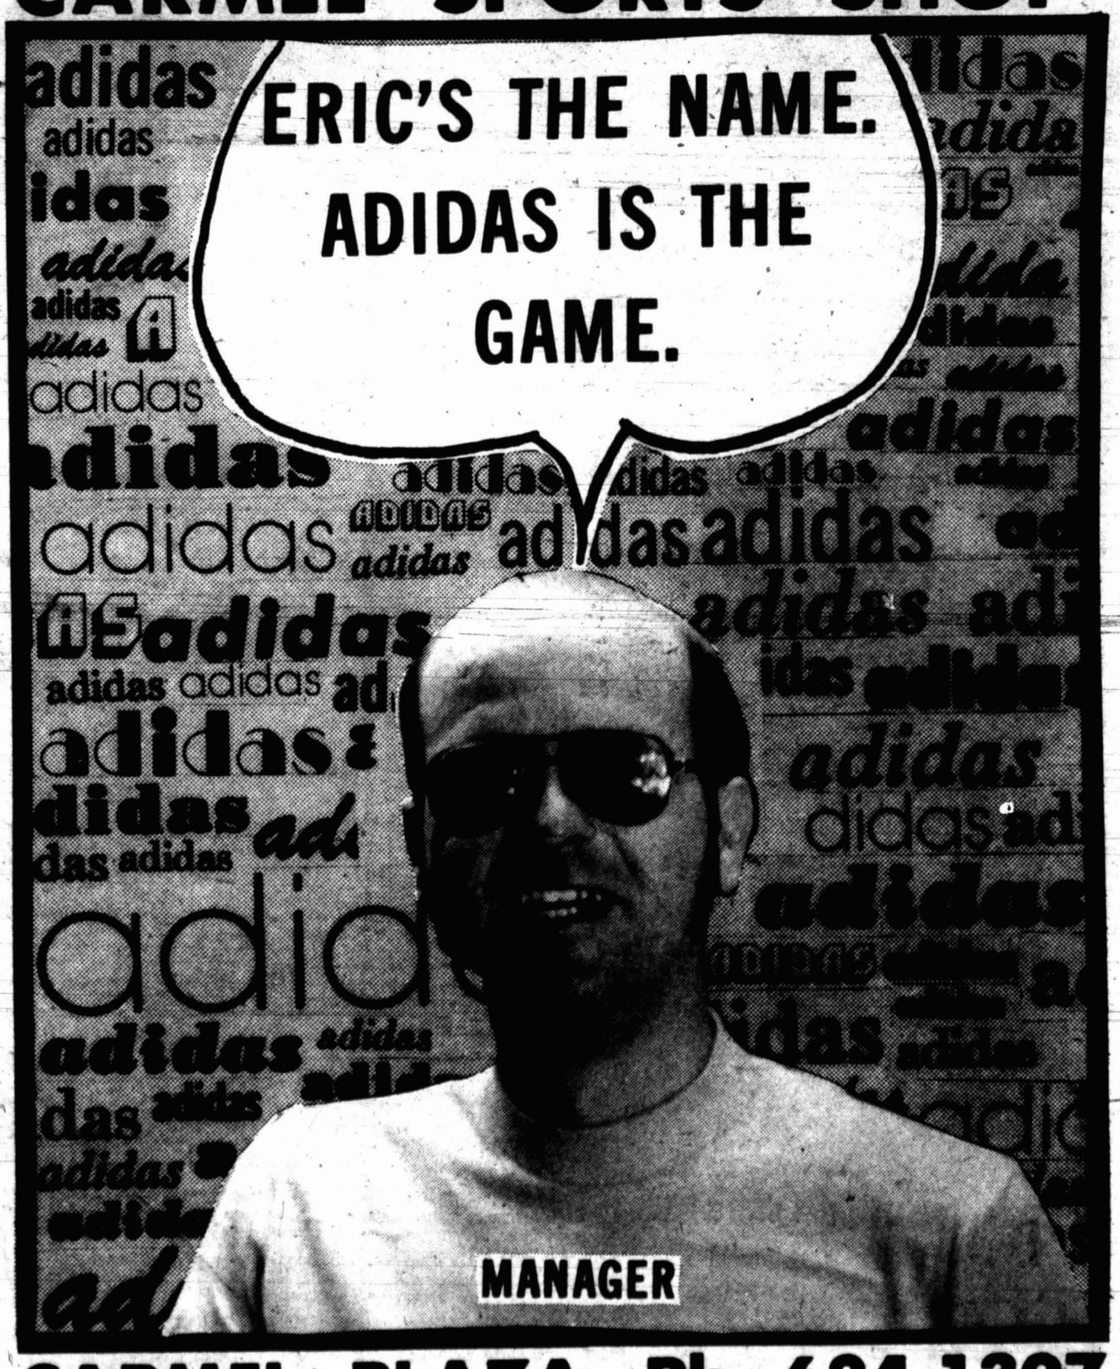

Among the USAC drivers competing for the championship will be Mario Andretti, the 1969 Indianapolis 500 champion who is currently in second place in the Formula 5000 standings: Johnny Rutherford, the 1974 Indy champion and Jerry Grant. SCCA will be represented by Brian Redman who now leads the Formula 5000 point standings: Sam Posey, Brett Lunger, Englishman David Hobbs and New Zealander Graham McRae. Also on hand will be Formula 1 Grand Prix points leaders Clay Regazzoni and Jody Scheckter.

A highlight of the weekend will be the HOP Shadow Challenge race wich will pit the two 1974 UOP Shadow Can-Am cars against the two 1974 UOP Shadow Formula 1 Grand Prix cars. This will be the first time that Formula 1 cars have run at Laguna Seca and the first time in many years that they have competed anywhere in the U.S. other than at the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y. This will also be the only appearance of 1974 Can-Am cars during the year on the West Coast.

Also on the agenda will be the FAR Performance Challenge Race for grand touring cars with a purse of $5,000 and two SCCA restricted regional races.

Tickets for the event are now on sale through all Ticketron outlets. Children under 12 are admitted free and parking is free. Camping is available adjacent to the track at Laguna Seca Ranch Campgrounds.

will be made in the Padre lineup for the game. Rick Parker will probably be moved back from running back to wide receiver. And one of the three fullbacks (Makowski, Canadas, or Mark Nichols) will be shifted to halfback.

"I honestly believe that our team is better than we have showed thus far. But physically and psychologically we've just got to come together as a team."

The Carmel Varsity will host Santa Clara at 2:00 this Saturday on - Bardarson Field.

Meanwhile the Junior Varsity were whipped by Peterson 34-14. The J.V.'s after being down at one time 14-0 came to within six points at 20-14 before being blown out.

Carmel halfback Mike Scalise capped off a 68-yard drive by scoring from five yards out. The second Padre touchdown came on a 2-yard pass from Guy DuBets to Bill Colohan. DuBets kicked both extra points.

Head Coach Frank Lynch praised five offensive players. Aside from DuBets and Scalise, Lynch was pleased with offensive linemen Jay Whitehead, Bob Pollard and Larry Ocampo.

Defensive coach Joe Feldiesen sung praise for linemen Kelly Ragan, J.J. Jinishan and Jim Marsh.

"Our defensive ends, Tracey Martin and Bill Colohan did a good job of turning the plays inside."

Also, Tony Spear was cited for picking up a fumble and intercepting a pass.

The J.V.'s begin at 12:00 versus Santa Clara. Last year, Santa Clara triumphed 12-0.

The Freshmen, who drew a bye last week, meet San Lorenzo Valley in San Lorenzo when they kickoff at 12:00 Saturday morning.

Coastal group reaches policy decision

Recommends beaches and all shoreline be declared 'public'

The Central Coast Regional Commission of the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission has recommended that "every sand beach area and, where no beach exists, the immediate shoreline below the limit of terrestial vegetation" be declared a "public common."

The commission's policy recommendation is included in its recreation element, the fifth of nine "elements" to be presented to area residents through public hearings. Also included is a recommendation that the state attorney general be delegated authority to enforce the public's right to have access and use of the coastline and, when neccessary, bring suit against private land owners on behalf of the public.

In the view of Lee Otter, a planner for the Central Coast Regional office in Santa Cruz, the "public commons" concept is one of the most controversial policy recommendations presented by the commission to date. While it is neither new nor revolutionary (Florida, Texas, and Hawaii have enacted similiar legislation), it is a proposal which is bound to stir opposition among private owners of beach property.

Otter explained that the concept of a "public common" has not been clearly defined. "You might describe it as a public easement which would give people freedom to walk along the shoreline from one point of publicly owned property to another. Whether or not it would mean that people can bring their families and have picnics on privately owned shoreline property is something that remains to be determined," he said.

The proposal stipulates that titles on shoreline property will remain in private hands. All land below the mean high tide mark is currently owned and governed by the state.

The coastal commission's round of public hearings concerning the recreation element was begun Monday night in Santa Cruz. While comments were presented in response to several policy recommendations in the draft report from commission planners, the "public commons" proposal emerged as the principal point of contention between various interest groups represented at the meeting.

Voicing support for the proposal, Carmel residents Rod Holmgren stated that in comparison to other states California would be late in enacting such legislation. But, he said, the public commons concept would save "hundreds of miles of beach. It would serve to halt the rip-off by which private landholders have denied beach access to the public in so many places."

He also expressed concern that such public access might lead to the takeover of beach campgrounds be designated as "walk in campgrounds" and beach areas "for people who come and go by foot."

Presenting the interests of private shoreline land owners, Joan Hudson questioned the commission about financial compensation for their "contribution." Despite the state's power of eminent domain over the shoreline property in question, she said, not all private beaches should be made public. She recommended that several designations should be applied to shoreline property, including "private" property, "reserve," and "public" lands.

Bob Lagle of the commission staff explained to Ms. Hudson that the question of compensation to shoreline property owners would be taken up in the last element, scheduled for public hearings in January, which will deal with "Power, Funding, and Government Organization."

Another recommendation included in the commission's recreation element which

Jewelry class scheduled

Adults interested in learning the art of jewelry making can still enroll in a class held on Monday and Wednesday evenings, 7-10 P.M., at Seaside High School, according to Gerald O. Anderson, Director of the Monterey Adult School.

Paul White of Big Sur, the instructor, says students interested in other crafts such as pottery, may also enroll, but the course will emphasize jewelry design and creation for beginning and advanced students. Among the jewelry fabrication techniques to be covered are soldering, piercing, forging, die-forming, chasing and repousse, etching and lost-wax casting. Students may work with inexpensive matterials such as brass and bronze, or with silver and gold if they prefer. Class is structured to accommodate individual student needs.

White holds a B.F.A. degree in jewelry making from Northern Illinois University and a M.F.A. degree in metalsmithing and jewelry design from Southern Illinois University. His jewelry has been shown at many craft shows and competitions throughout the mid-west and he has won numerous awards and prizes for his work. He has been making pottery for 8 years and has experience in various forms of textile crafts.

Residents from throughout the Peninsula may enroll. The fee is $3.00 plus lab fee. For further information, phone evenings -- 649-7386 or 649-7188.

Legion Post honors Artellan

Members of Carmel's Post No.512, The American Legion, will salute Marty Artellan at a dance at the Legion Hall September 28. Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of a life membership to Mr. Artellan.

Life membership in a Legion Post is a high honor, and Artellan is the second man to be so honored in the history of the Carmel Legion Post.

The life membership will be awarded for Artellan's outstanding public service, and service to the Legion.

He is a life-long resident of Carmel, and is best known as a band leader and accordeonist. Artellan frequently donates his services at the Mission Fiesta.

Friends of the Artellan family are invited to attend the ceremony, which will take place during an infermission in the dancing. Tickets for the dance will be available at the door at $1 each.

drew comment at Monday's public hearing concerned the designation of state Route 1 as a "scenic road."

The commission has proposed that sections of the coastal highway, including the section between the Carmel River and San Simeon, be maintained as a "scenic two-land highway." The proposal states: "improvements should be limited to those needed for safety and to develop vista areas, parking, information centers, visitor service centers, drinking water, restrooms, picnic areas, visitor service facilities, and other amenities that would add to the road's value as a scenic roadway."

Objections were expressed by Henry Case, of the state department of parks and recreation. He argued that "roads should be designed for maximum use."

Following the meeting, commission planner Otter stated "at least one more hearing will be held on the recreation element, probably more than that." The date of the next hearing, which will be held again in Santa Cruz, has not been announced.

U.N.A. schedules party

The United Nations Association of the Monterey Peninsula is holding a garden party for prospective members on the patio of the Forge in the Forest, Junipero at Fifth, September 29 from 3 until 5 P.M.

Mrs. Howard Clark, President of UNA, urges anyone interested in learning more about the UN and its work in combatting overpopulation, pollution, dwindling natural resources, and other worldwide problems to attend.

Students in native costume will serve refreshments, some of which will be supplied by the new restaurant opening next door. The spot was chosen because of the blue and white UN flag which flies over the Forge. Three white doves, modeled by sculptor Donald Buby, hover over the flag.

In the past year, UNA has held seminars in conjunction with the American Institute of Architects on solar heating and other alternative energy sources.

They have sponsored seminars on recycling, and have staged a mock trial with two lawyers, one defending "Mother Earth," and another defending "Man."

One topic of conversation at the UNA garden party will be the new UNA Center-Gift Shop which will open in Carmel during United Nations week late in October.

Single memberships in the UNA organization are $10 and family membership, $15. A bi-monthly newspaper, "The Interdependent," devoted to international news, is included.

A "YES" ANSWER TO ANY OF THESE QUESTIONS MAY MEAN YOUR GAS FURNACE NEEDS HELP.

YES	NO
☐	☐	1. Are you concerned about heavy black dirt streaks on walls surrounding room registers even though filters are changed regularly?
☐	☐	2. Do your furnace burners have a yellow (rather than blue) flame?
☐	☐	3. Is the front of your furnace blackened by what appears to be soot?
☐	☐	4. Do you have difficulty, even after following furnace manufacturer's instructions, changing your furnace's air filters?
☐	☐	5. Do you smell the odor of gas near your furnace?

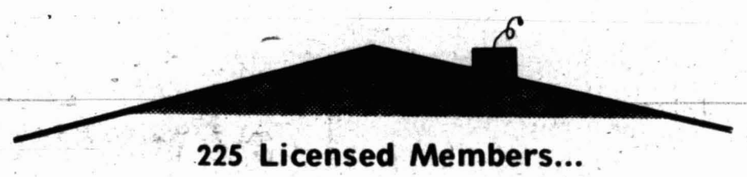

If you answered "YES" to question #5, call PG&E immediately. A service-person will respond and check the situation.

For anything else, call a qualified furnace repair service to inspect your heating system, and make sure that your gas burners, furnace air openings, and wall or floor furnaces are free of dirt and lint. Then, when properly serviced, your furnace will be safe, efficient and economical.

While you're thinking of home economy for winter, here are a few more questions:

Does your attic floor have 6" of insulation?
Are your doors and windows weatherstripped?
Do you close your fireplace damper when it's not in use?
Do you keep your thermostat at 68°, or lower?
Do you close your draperies at night, and leave them open during the day?
If the answer was "YES" to these questions—you're using energy wisely.

Herald Guild votes to strike if needed

Newspaper Guild employees of the Monterey Peninsula Herald voted unanimously Monday night to authorize a strike against the Toledo, Ohio owned daily.

Members of the Guild, which represents more than 100 of the Herald's employees, authorized their negotiators to call strike "if and when necessary."

The Guild represents employees in the news, advertising, bookkeeping and circulation department. Approximately 80 other Herald employees are represented by the printers and pressmens unions.

"We have been negotiating for the past 10 months and so far management has refused to take the Guild seriously," said Russ Cain, a Herald photographer and the Guild's unit chairman.

Herald employees voted 74-17 last October for bargaining representation by the Guild. The vote Monday night was 68-0.

The Monterey Peninsula's only daily newspaper, the Herald was acquired in 1969 by the Eastern and Midwest Block chain, owners of the Toledo Blade and other papers.

Blade employees are represented by the Newspaper Guild and other unions, and are paid substantially more than employees holding similar positions on the Herald.

Carmilite listed in 1974 Who's Who

William Stanley Hood of Carmel has recently received word that he will be among those listed in the 1974 edition of Who's Who in California.

Mr. Hood says he is rather "mystified" as to how he became included, or who nominated him, but feels that the recognition probably comes through his work with the association of Monterey Bay Area Governments.

He has been Executive Director of AMBAG since the end of March, and has worked with the Association since 1971.

In 1971 Mr. Hood was involved in the preparation of a waste water management study for the Monterey Bay, now referred to as the Central Coastal Basin Plan.

He has also assisted local agencies with transportation planning.

Twirl Club

Girls between the ages of 5 and 16 are eligible to register for the Carmel Twirl Club at Carmel River School and Tularcitos School October 7 at 3:30.

The goal of the Twirl Club is to help students develop grace, poise, self-confidence, coordination and physical fitness through twirling, and to provide opportunities for them to perform for friends, school and community activities.

The Carmel Twirl Club will be under the direction of Jennie England. Mrs. England, who instructs youngsters in Monterey, Pacific Grove and Salinas, has been a faculty member of the International Twirling Teachers' Institute for the past three years, conducting classes for teachers in Spain, Italy, and Mexico.

Students will be divided into classes according to their age at the first weekly meeting October 7.

CUSD plans benefit ball

Preparations are underway by the Citizens' Committee for the schools of the Carmel district to have a no-host cocktail party and dance, "El Baile de los Amigos" on Sat., October 19, 8:30-12:00 a.m. in the Carmel Center Mall.

The Mall has been donated by the Carmel Center Merchants Association who according to business manager, Dick Osborne, "like doing things that benefit the whole community."

The eating establishments have agreed to remain open that evening at the Center for the dining pleasure of those attending the benefit.

Music will be provided by groups from the Music department of Carmel High School under the direction of Henry Avila.

Donations of $3.00 per person-$5.00 per couple will be used to publicize the need for an Override to be decided at the November 5th election.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. Dale Buche who heads Citizens Committee fund.

Dress design class to begin

A course in dress designing will begin October 1 at Monterey High School. Gerald O.Anderson, Director of the Monterey Adult School, has announced. The class will meet each Tuesday and Thursday evening in room 1, with Ester Ellis instructing. Tuition fee is $3.00.

The instructor says students will learn to create original styles from fitted basic patterns, alter ready-to-wear garments, and copy patterns from garments or pictures, along with other skills. She brings to the class a background that includes professional designing in Hollywood and her own custom design studio in Berkeley, as well as teaching dress designing in college and adult classes.

Interested persons may enroll at the adult school office at Monterey High School during evening hours, Monday through Thursday.

Explorama series comes to Carmel

SEVENTY-NINE-YEAR-old Gerry Martin plays a homemade violin in the tiny town of GerryKennedy, Ireland.

Explorama has announced their 1974-75 series of feature-length color travel adv-enture film documentaries. The new season consists of seven films, all with in-person narration by their producers. The series will be screened in eight Northern California cities.

The premiere showing of a new film entitled, "Ireland", has been billed as the opening event of the season. Chris Borden, the films producer, will appear in person to narrate the film, which will be screened at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, October 11, at the Sunset Cultural Center Auditorium in Carmel.

Chris Borden is a former San Francisco radio personality, and founder of the Chris Borden School of Radio Announcing. He sold his business in 1965 and chucked the life of a radio announcer to devote full time to producing travel-adventure films. Since then he has produced films in Switzerland, Mexico, Bali, and Nepal.

Borden's film of Ireland has been in production for over two years. It was shot on location in Dublin, Shannon, Galway, Donegal, Cork, Bantry Bay, Killarney, Glendalough, and in small villages through out Ireland. A highlight of the film is a 360-mile boat trip on the Shannon River from Limerick to the border of Northern Ireland.

Other films of the new series, all with in-person narration, are "Europe's Mini 'Countries": Monaco, Andora, San Marino, and Liechtenstein, with Lisa Chickering and Jeanne Porterfield, November 8; "Switzerland Today" with Willis Butler, January 10; "Inside Passage To Alaska" with Don Cooper, February 7; "Romance of Romania" with Jonathan Hagar, March 14; "Norway" with Ed Lark, April 11; and "The Magic of Venice" with Doug Jones, May 9.

Reserved seat single tickets and series tickets are now available at the Julia Marlowe Box Office in the Sunset Center, Carmel, and the Abinante Music Store in Monterey. A brochure describing the series is available, free of charge through Explorama, 609 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

A MAGNIFICENT ESTATE NEAR THE BEACH

Never have we more aptly said, "Must be seen to be appreciated!" The property consists of the whole of Carmel's Block 147, which runs between Camino Real and Casanova -- Santa Lucia and Frasier. It's a beautiful adobe home, built by Hugh Constock for its owner in 1937; quality, not price, was the objective. The home has 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, double-garage. Living room is 18' x 32'; master bedroom is 15' x 29'. The garden is terrific. Well worth the price of $185,000. But as we said before, you just have to SEE it.

2 BDRM CHEAPIE & GOODIE - $50,000

A real find!!! This great little Carmel cottage is loaded with charm, BUT it's in excellent condition -- even has an almost new central heating system and a modernized kitchen. It's quite close-in, on a large lot, yet it's also SECLUDED. Delightful living room with fireplace, dining ell, fenced garden planted with native trees and shrubs for easy maintenance, and a real estate PEAK of the ocean. Imagine all this for only $50,000.

SCENIC DRIVE -- 2 BRS, DEN & STUDIO

An unusually charming, older home with a north, no-glare exposure overlooking Carmel Beach and Pebble Beach. Beamed-ceiling living room with 3 exposures, small dining room, large completely new kitchen, very protected patio facing south. There's a detached studio that defies description. A rare opportunity at $125,000.

4 BRS -- 3 BLOCKS TO BEACH - $89,500

An out-of-the-ordinary, OCEAN VIEW, new 4-bedroom, 3-bath Mediterranean-style home on a very quiet street, yet close to the beach. The home has 3 baths, a large game room, and over 300 sq. ft. of delightful deck, all required, the owner will finance pay-off penalty.
